Funky Groovy "Green" Tour

Tour will be in three parts:

Renewable Energy at Apple Pond Farm: Operates as an organic farm featuring draft and pleasure horses, and naturally-raised sheep and goats. Through several wind and solar renewable energy systems, the farm seeks to be as independent of fossil fuels as possible. Be enlightened by an hour Renewable Energy Tour of the farm and learn about energy efficiency and energy production systems; wind turbine, solar-electric and solar-thermal systems, straw bale house, used vegetable oil furnace and truck and more, that power 95% of the farm. We will discuss ways that you can start saving and producing energy yourself.

YouTube

Museum at Bethel Woods: The museum is featuring the 2019 exhibit We Are Golden: Reflections on the 50th Anniversary of the Woodstock Festival & Aspirations for A Peaceful Future. The Museum at Bethel Woods, where vibrant, interactive exhibits, programs, and events celebrate the 1969 Woodstock Music and Art Fair and the entire decade that it came to represent. The significance of this event as a culminating event of a decade of radical cultural transformation, and the legacy of the Sixties and Woodstock today.

The farm is 2 hours from New York City in the Catskills. Situated high on a hill it offers panoramic views. It has been farmed since 1865. Sonja Hedlund and Dick Riseling have operated the farm since 1973 as a horse-powered, organic farm featuring draft and pleasure horses, naturally raised sheep and goats. Through several wind and solar renewable energy systems, the farm seeks to be as independent of fossil fuels as possible.

Sonja Hedlund began her work life as an English teacher in Hiroshima, Japan. The former director of New York State's heart disease prevention program, she is now a full-time farmer. As a shepherd and goat keeper, she takes pride in her flocks. Making goat cheese, bread, sheep shearing, spinning, dyeing wool, and weaving has become special interests. Every Saturday morning she hosts "Ballads and Banjos" on WJFF. She is a regular contributor to the local weekly newspaper, The Towne Crier.

The Farm in New York State - Apple Pond Farm and Renewable Energy Education Center

Dick Riseling's background and academic training are in international relations, fiscal policy, and social justice. Concerned about global warming and the oil crisis, he installed the first on-farm wind turbine in Sullivan County. Since then, solar hot water and solar electric systems have been added to the farm; these produce more than two-thirds of the electricity we use. In 2005, Dick constructed a round straw bale house and converted an old diesel farm truck to run on used vegetable oil. He is a community activist on several issues: sustainable development, renewable energy, casino free development, and social justice. He offers workshops on renewable energy and private consultation on ways to install renewable energy systems in homes and businesses.

He is a skilled horse trainer and enjoys driving our teams of draft horses. At WJFF, the county's public commercial freed radio station; he hosts a weekly show called WJFF Connections which features fues and commentary on local, national and international issues.

Over the years, over 100 apprentices have lived and trained at the farm. Coming mainly from Europe, Scandinavia, Japan, New Zealand, and Latin America. Many of them are now full-time horse drawn-organic farmers. Each year school children, teachers, campers, and families participate in our educational and recreational activities.

You are welcome to rest and enjoy the natural beauty of this place or to participate in the daily tasks and special activities. We are open year-round. Reservations are required for all visits.

The farm has invested in these renewable energy systems for the following reasons:

- Renewable energy reduces our dependence on non-renewable greenhouse gas-emitting fossil fuel.
- These systems further the educational mission of Apple Pond Farm. They are decentralizing electricity generation. This strengthens the local electric grid, making blackouts less likely. Combined with conservation efforts such as using compact fluorescent light bulbs (CFL), Energy Star appliances, living in well-insulated buildings and minimizing consumption wherever possible, we have started on the path to more sustainable living.

OUR RENEWABLE ENERGY SYSTEMS IN NY

To lighten our footprint on this beautiful, living planet, we have installed several renewable energy systems. They produce most of the energy that we need for power, lighting, and space heating, and avoid more than 40 tons of carbon dioxide emissions each year. By producing our own renewable energy and following several no-cost and low-cost energy-saving practices, we also avoid borrowing from past reserves or future needs for energy. Here are some of the renewable energy and green building practices at our farm. Click for renewable energy pictures.

A 7.5kw photovoltaic (PV) array and a 10kw wind turbine generate electricity onsite. These systems are connected to the electric grid. When onsite electricity production is greater than onsite demand, the excess electricity is sent onto the electric grid. Throughout the year, our turbine and PV array supply about 1.5 times the electricity needed by an average home site.

A rooftop array of solar thermal collection tubes heats domestic hot water and preheats the water in our radiant floor space heating system. This system essentially “preheats” the hot water up to 150 F, allowing us to save on the wood that would otherwise be required to heat our water and home.

A two-story round straw bale house serves as an educational center and residence for farm interns. Using organic, locally grown products, including the highly effective insulative value of straw, this attractive building cost less than $10,000 to build. When hooked up to our wind turbine, it's current $100 a year utility bill will be zero and the building will become a net exporter of energy.

Experimentation with burning used vegetable oil and other biofuels for space heating is currently underway.

Museum at Bethel Woods

WHAT IS THE MUSEUM AT BETHEL WOODS?

The Museum at Bethel Woods is an integral part of Bethel Woods Center for the Arts, which inspires people to lead creative and engaged lives through its many concerts, events, festivals, programs, and exhibitions—all on the site of the 1969 Woodstock Music and Art Fair.

The Museum, which opened to the public on June 2008, is housed in a beautiful LEED-certified green building, set back from the top of the Woodstock festival hillside. Within the building, in addition to the Main Exhibit Gallery, Museum Shop and Muse Café (with indoor and outdoor seating), there is a spacious Event Gallery where intimate concerts and other events are held. On the lower level are the Special Exhibit Gallery, Corridor Gallery, and public restrooms, as well as the Museum's administrative offices.

Through our award-winning Main Exhibit—“Woodstock and The Sixties”—varied and engaging special exhibitions, a growing collection of artifacts and reference materials, museum programs for children, youth, and adults, and the preserved historical site, the Museum makes the lessons and ideals of The Sixties relevant and accessible today.

The Museum embodies the key ideas of the era we interpret—peace, respect, cooperation, creativity, engagement, and a connection to the planet we live on and all the people who inhabit it. In addition to preserving and interpreting an era, the Museum is actively involved in our community—through education, economic development, and historic preservation—to encourage social responsibility among our visitors and supporters and to advocate for issues that make Sullivan County, and the world at large, a better place. To borrow from 1960s ideology, everyone has the power to change the world.

MUSEUM HOURS: April 29 -Sept. 2 Summer Hours: Every day, 10am-7pm

TIPS FOR AN ENJOYABLE MUSEUM VISIT

- Most visitors spend at least an hour and a half to two hours in the museum exhibits. The main exhibit offers 21 short films, several interactive exhibits, and many fun and interesting artifacts to see and read about. Special exhibits (if scheduled) are included with regular museum admission and are located on the lower level in the Special Exhibit Gallery and the Corridor Gallery.
- The museum is climate-controlled for your comfort, but if you plan to explore the Woodstock festival site and see the monument, you'll want to wear comfortable walking shoes. A coat or jacket is appropriate if temperatures are cool, and an umbrella is a good idea if rain has been forecasted. The grassy festival site slopes downward toward West Shore Road, and while the walk down might be easy, please be aware that the walk up the hill could be a bit difficult for young children or visitors with mobility issues.
- There is no smoking allowed anywhere inside the museum building. Smoking is allowed at certain designated outdoor areas.
- Enjoy a snack or a full meal at our Muse Café, located in the Museum lobby. Dine at tables in the lobby or outside on our covered patio overlooking our terrace gardens and the concert Pavilion.
- There is no food or drink allowed inside the Museum exhibits or in our Museum Shop. This includes children's juice boxes or any snacks.
- Photography IS ALLOWED in the museum for personal, non-commercial use. For the benefit of other museum guests, we ask that you do not use flash or other supplemental lighting and that you do not use tripods, monopods, or other bulky equipment in the museum.
- Service animals are ALWAYS welcome, but please leave pets at home. Pets are not allowed at Bethel Woods Center for the Arts (including the museum) and leaving your pet in the car can be deadly.

YASGUR'S FARM CAFÉ

For your convenience, Yasgur's Farm Café is located within the museum building and offers freshly prepared snacks and full meals, beer and wine, sandwiches, soups, salads, and daily specials. Indoor bistro seating is available and covered outdoor seating is available during warmer weather. The menu has burgers, Paninis, Salads, Quesadillas, and Wraps. The average price is around $11 for a meal.

- Summer Yasgur's Farm Café: Full menu service 11:00 am–3:00 pm/ Prepared snacks and beverages only 3:00 pm–4:00 pm

MUSEUM VISITORS WITH SPECIAL NEEDS: Visitors with special needs are always welcome at the Museum. We have planned for your comfort and convenience with plentiful handicapped parking and a completely accessible building and exhibits. You'll find a spacious elevator in the lobby provides access to the lower level where accessible restrooms and special exhibit galleries are located. Inside the main museum exhibit, the films are closed-captioned. Visitors accompanied by a service animal are welcome. Wheelchairs are available upon request at the Welcome Desk.

EXHIBITS

2019 SPECIAL EXHIBIT - WE ARE GOLDEN: REFLECTIONS ON THE 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE WOODSTOCK FESTIVAL AND ASPIRATIONS FOR A PEACEFUL FUTURE

The Museum at Bethel Woods presents We Are Golden, a very special exhibition that examines Woodstock and what the youth of 1969 wanted for the world, places the festival in the context of the positive societal changes it has spawned and asks today's youth what THEY are asking the world to do now. Concert for Bangladesh, Live Aid, Farm Aid, We Are the World, Earth Day, the Peace Movement, Women's Movement, LGBTQ Movement, #metoo, the Women's March and student gun control movement all have their roots in the 1960s. This exhibition uses the 1969 Woodstock Music and Art Fair as a metaphor for the tumult and human response of the entire decade of the sixties in the hope that young people today may draw inspiration to articulate what it is that they want from their world in their own time.

CROSSROADS GALLERY - WE ARE STARDUST: We Are Stardust in the crossroads exhibit gallery will present objects and interpretation related to the Apollo 11 Lunar Landing, an event which took place in July of 1969, just weeks before the Woodstock Music and Art Fair. The exhibit will interpret the objects and history surrounding the moon landing through the lens of American culture, examining the effect of the Cold War/Space Race, American space program, "moon mania," and the eventual national success of putting the first man on the moon on the lives of everyday Americans at the end of the tumultuous 1960s.

THE PERMANENT MUSEUM COLLECTION: At the core of every great museum is a great collection. Even before the Museum at Bethel Woods opened its doors in 2008, it carefully began collecting authentic items to help it tell its story of the Woodstock festival and 1960s popular culture, politics, and societal change. Through the generosity of our donors, the Museum has built an impressive collection of period photographs, film footage, newspapers, and ephemera, as well as clothing, jewelry, posters, and other artifacts to be used in exhibits and for scholarly research. As is the case at other museums, there is more of the Bethel Woods Collection in secure storage than on display. This gives the Museum the flexibility to rotate sensitive items off display from time to time and to have significant items in reserve to enliven the Main Exhibit or to draw upon for Special Exhibits.

Harvest Festival at Bethel Woods

Bethel Woods warmly welcomes guests near and far to celebrate the return of autumn by attending the 21st Annual Harvest Festival, taking place every Sunday in September from 11:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., at the corner of Hurd and West Shore Road.

The Harvest Festival highlights the bounty and talent of both Sullivan County and the surrounding areas. It is free, family-friendly and features more than 100 vendors, including a farmer's market, craft and artisan goods, specialty food, beer, wine, spirits, and food trucks. Offerings also include live music, a creative learning tent, corn and hay mazes, and horse and buggy rides. Facebook | Website

- Venue: Harvest Festival Field
- Times: 10:30 AM Parking Lots Open | 11:00 AM - 4:00 PM Festival
- Ticket Information: $3.00 Parking Fee. Free Admission. Please, no pets.
- Please note that a portion of West Shore Road, from Perry Rd to Hurd Rd will be closed from 11am-4pm on each Harvest Festival date. Please use an alternate route.
